Origins

Savigny-lès-Beaune wine is produced in the commune of Savigny, in the famous Burgundian Côte de Beaune.

The Appellation d'origine contrôlée (AOC) Savigny-lès-Beaune may be used for red and white wine with respectively Pinot Noir and Chardonnay as the main grape variety. The name of the appellation is sometimes written simply as Savigny, without the lès-Beaune part. The production consists of slightly over 85 per cent red wine, and slightly less than 15 per cent white wine. There are no Grand Cru vineyards within Savigny-lès-Beaune.

The allowed base yield is 40 hectoliters per hectare of red wine.

The village of Savigny les Beaune benefits from a unique location that lead to two different types of wines : the hillside next to Pernand Vergelesses gives mineral, fruity, and elegant wines, and the other one, located near the Mont Battois, produces richer nectars, with more structure.
